CROWDS WAVE FAREWELL AS C., D. & M. QUITS

Last Car Greeted Along Route; 100 Take Final Ride at Prospect.

WRECKING WORK STARTS

C. C. Moyer, Conductor on First Run, Fills Same Post on Last.

Hundreds of persons gathered along the route of the C., D. & M. interurban last night to bid goodbye to an electrical transportation system that has served north-central Ohio for 31 years.

Crowds formed at stations in Marion, Prospect, Delaware and Columbus as the last car made a final run. Residents along the route waved as the car passed their homes.

The interurban line made its official exit last night at 10:45 when the last car was placed in the barns at Delaware. On the final run, the car left Delaware at 9:05, arrived in Marion at 9:50 and departed for Delaware at 10. V. E. Bush, motorman, and W. M. Lawson, conductor, both of Delaware, were in charge of the car, but Lawson stepped aside on the final run to permit C. C. Moyer of Delaware, superintendent of the railway division of the C., D. & M., to officiate as acting conductor.

Sees Line Begin, End

Mr. Moyer, who brought the first car into Marion in 1903, and who has been connected with the line since its inception, was accompanied by Mrs. Moyer, their son, George, and his wife.

The car stopped at Prospect on its final run and carried village officials and approximately 100 persons several hundred feet. Automobile horns were sounded as the car continued on its way.

During the brief stop at the station in Marion, Mr. Moyer found his former employer, George Whysall, now manager of the Marion Water Co., in the crowd. Mr. Whysall was superintendent of construction when the interurban line was built, and was general manager for a number of years, during which time Mr. Moyer was an employe.

16 on Last Trip

Sixteen persons took the round trip from Delaware to Marion and back to Delaware. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Siegfried, W. C. McNew, Morgan Ruffner, Miss Annabelle Weaver, Mrs. W. M. Lawson and daughters, all of Delaware, and John Fahey of Radnor.

Work of dismantling the equipment was begun today. Workmen started tearing down the trolley wire and loosening rails on the Bucyrus division, speeding work on that division to make way for contemplated street improvements in Bucyrus.

Stations at Marion and Delaware probably will be maintained until Sept. 1 to permit employes to close their books and make final arrangements for vacating the offices. Freight stations in both cities probably wil be retained by the C., D. & M. as storage rooms.

HOOVER TESTIMONY SOUGHT IN DETROIT

Grand Jury Wants Ex-President's Story of Banking Difficulties.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Aug. 22—Plans were being completed here today to obtain the testimony of Herbert Hoover for the open grand jury investigation of Detroit's banking difficulties.

Prosecutor Harry S. Toy, and Circuit Judge Harry B. Keidan, the latter sitting as the one-man court of inquiry, decided last night to ask the former president to accept a subpoena after United States Senator James Couzens had wound up a day of startling charges with the suggestion that Mr. Hoover be requested to testify.

Senator Couzens testified yesterday that the federal government knew of "deplorable conditions" in the now closed First National Bank-Detroit almost 10 months before the Michigan banking holiday. He also asserted that, had not "the powers that be" been reluctant to start "an epidemic of bank closing during a political year" they would have required a more drastic write-down of losses brought to light during examinations of the books of the First National and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce.

Whether Mr Hoover will be asked to come to Detroit to give his testimony was not decided today. It was expected that the more likely course would be the taking of his deposition at Palo Alto.

(Efforts to contact Mr. Hoover for a comment regarding the decision of the investigating jury were not immediately successful. At his Palo Alto home he was said to be on a fishing party in Oregon or Northern California.)

JOHNSON HITS PRICE BOOSTS

NRA Will Not Countenance Unreasonable Increases, Retailers Told.

CODE HEARING IS OPENED

Johnson Will Consider It His Duty To Halt Any Cost Run-Away.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—A declaration that the national recovery administration would not countenance unreasonable price increases was made today by Hugh S. Johnson in addressing retail dealers at the opening of a hearing on their code of competition.

The retail trade was urged by Johnson to resist price increases in the near future from jobbers who supply them with their goods.

"I say," Johnson said, "resent these price increases and we will support you."

The recovery administrator asserted that so far as speculative price rises were concerned his administration considered it "our duty to see that there is no runaway market."

Must Be Reasonable

He said the national industrial recovery act would increase prices to meet new costs imposed by compliance with the trade charters, but just because of this "there is no reason to go way beyond reason."

The retail trade hearing was described by Johnson as most significant. The retail trade, embracing virtually all stores and shops except drug and food, affects more employers and employes than any of the major businesses.

Johnson told the retail dealers the act provided an opportunity for the country's great industrial units to band together to wipe out "intolerable conditions" of depression. He added the act did not need "czarism" to administer it.

In enforcing compliance with the blue eagle provisions, Johnson asserted there would be no violence, no man hunting and no boycotting.

But, he said, the administration would move to uncover cheaters behind the blue eagle and then we are going to move in and take the blue eagle off their windows. The purpose now is to try to get as wide a measure of cooperation as possible. After that has been done—and it is almost over now—then we are going to see to those who are doing the cheating.

To Stop Chiseling

"The purpose of this act was to enable all trades and industries to rid themselves of those chiseling

LAMSON CONFIDENT OF BEING ACQUITTED

Stanford Man Charged With Killing Wife; State Seeks Death Penalty.

By The Associated Press

SAN JOSE, Calif., Aug. 22—Confident and calm, David A. Lamson, 31, Stanford university press representative, looked forward today to acquittal in his trial for the murder of his attractive 28-year-old wife, Allene.

Six women and six men were tentatively accepted as jurors at his trial yesterday, and Edwin M. Rea, Lamson's attorney, announced the defense was "ready to stipulate with the prosecution that the jury be accepted."

Friends of Lamson said his confinement in the county jail had not affected him adversely and that he had told them he was getting "fine material for a prison play that I intend to write as soon as I get out."

A collateral feature of the case was the marriage in Vallejo, Calif., last night of Esther Dolores Roberts, 23, nurse said in the Lamson home at the time of the tragedy last Memorial day. Miss Roberts became the bride of Warren B. Swenson, 23, of San Jose, on a marriage license obtained last July 7.

COUNTY BOARD WILL RECEIVE NEW ROAD BIDS

Commissioners Reject Proposals of Two Contractors; Say Material Declined.

$16,019 WILL BE SPENT

Decision Made To Advertise Work; Date of Sept. 5 Set.

County commissioners voted this morning to receive new bids Sept. 5 on their $16,019.65 county road program.

At the same time, it was revealed that two informal bids for the program, received by the board Aug. 2, had been rejected on Aug. 5. They explained that a sudden and substantial decrease in the cost of bituminous material to be used in the program led them to reject the informal bids and to decide today to receive new bids.

Both of the rejected informal bids, submitted by Henry F. Drake and Grover Snyder, were for the exact amount of the estimated cost of the program, made by Surveyor Carl H. Tozzer.

The commissioners said that the question of the legality of their procedure in receiving informal bids on Aug. 2, did not enter into the rejection of the bids. The question of legality was raised when the board failed to advertise for bids except by posting a notice in the courthouse lobby five days before bids were taken.

Almost immediately after the informal bids were opened, the price of bituminous material began to drop, board members said. They said a decision to advertise for new bids was made to take advantage of this drop in prices.

Chairman O. C. McCurdy and Leo J. Cusick said the board discussed plans for the work two weeks ago with Acting Prosecutor Kenneth A. Robinson. They said they did not ask the acting prosecutor for an opinion on the question of legality of the informal bids, however.

J. O. Weiss, third member of the board, said he was ready to reject the informal bids the minute they were opened, but did not give his reason.

The program on which bids will be taken calls for retreading the Whetstone river road in Richland township and resurfacing of sections of a number of other county roads.

The commissioners said that advertisements stating that bids will be received Sept. 5 will be published as has been customary in the past.

RUBBER COMPANY TO LOCATE IN BUCYRUS

Concern Will Employ About 200 With Payroll of $200,000 Yearly.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Aug. 22 — Removal of the Henderson Tire & Rubber Company's plant from Columbus to Bucyrus within the next month was announced today by C. O. Henderson of Columbus, head of the concern.

Plans for bringing the factory here were completed yesterday at a meeting of Mr. Henderson and the Bucyrus Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Henderson operated his plant here until about 15 years ago when he moved to Columbus.

The factory will be located in the building formerly occupied by the Shunk Manufacturing plant which has been purchased by Mr. Henderson under a five-year contract for $20,000. The building has been vacant for 12 years.

The new plant will employ about 200 men and will carry an annual payroll of $200,000. Pledges amountnig to $20,000 have been raised to bring the factory here, it is announced. Cooperating with the Chamber of Commerce in bringing the factory here are John Q. Shunk of the Shunk Manufacturing company, W. A. Blicke and local banks. Wiliam C. Beer of Bucyrus has been retained as consulting attorney.

Tires and other rubber goods will be manufactured by the plant which will open in September.

NRA COORDINATOR TO SPEAK AT LOCAL JUBILEE MEETING

School Cost Compared in State Survey

The cost per pupils of operating Marion city schools in the 1931-32 term was considerably less than the average in Ohio cities, while the cost of education in Marion county's rural schools was substantially higher than the state average for counties, an Associated Press survey of the cost of operating Ohio schools shows.

It cost Marion city taxpayers $63.49 to educate each pupil during that term, as compared with the state average of $73.07 per pupil for cities, according to the survey. The cost for each pupil in the rural schools of the county during the same term was $95.80, well above the state average of $75.66 for Ohio counties.

City Comparison

In comparison to Marion city's per pupil cost of $63.49, the survey shows that Steubenville spent $98.36, Mansfield $93.41. Both cities are comparable to Marion in population.

Marion county's rural school cost of $95.80 ranked high among the counties, Hancock having spent $75.55 a pupil, Wyandot, $72.63 and Richland, $53.83.

While the Ohio legislature prepared to begin a study of school financing plans, the Associated Press learned that the cost of operating Ohio schools ranged from a peak of $205.91 per pupil in Shaker Heights, a suburb of Cleveland, to $36.60 in Sebring.

Dr. O. B. Skinner, state director of education, divided Ohio schools into three classes in preparing a summary of school operating expenses—cities, exempted villages and counties. In the latter group Lake county spent the most money for each student, $120.77, and Lawrence county the least, $51.57. The report lists a number of schools in this district.

Revenues To Drop

An average reduction of the per pupil cost for the 1933-34 term was predicted by Dr. Skinner on the basis of anticipated revenues. Tax delinquencies and lower tax duplicates has been a major contributing cause to the decrease in funds, he said.

Among the per pupil expenditures during the 1931-32 school year were—cities:

Shaker Heights, $205.91; Cleveland Heights, $164.74; Cincinnati, $139.42; Cleveland, $116.06, Elyria, $106.29; Toledo, $105.86.

Steubenville, $98.36; Toronto, $98.31; Berea, $96.52; Delphos, $93.69; Mansfield, $93.41; Findlay, $84.16; Massillon, $83.67; Sandusky, $83.27; Canton, $81.91; Hamilton, $78.90.

Dayton, $78.20; Lancaster, $75.56; Springfield, $75.13; Warren, $74.35; Youngstown, $73.29; Middletown, $71.22; Mt. Vernon, $70.91; Newark, $69.52.

Ironton, $68.11; Lorain, $67.68; Lima, $67.60; Portsmouth, $67.45; Marion, $63.49; Niles, $61.33;

SHOWDOWN DUE ON RACKET CHARGES

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 22—A showdown on the charge that some politicians work hand in glove with racketeers and gangsters was due today.

On the eve of a campaign in which embattled fusionists led by Fiorello H. La Guardia, will seek to drive Tammany from city hall, a county grand jury took matters in its own hands.

It invited George Z. Medalie, federal attorney and prominent Republican and Judge Frederic Kernochan, Democrat who recently broke with Tammany, to appear to name politicians who they charged are in league with gangsters and racketmen.

Marion Ready To Greet State Insurance Men

Ohio Association To Hold Thirty-Seventh Annual Convention Wednesday, Thursday.

Marion made ready today for the reception of approximately 500 delegates and their families who are expected here Wednesday and Thursday for the thirty-seventh annual convention of the Ohio Association of Insurance agents.

Registration will open Wednesday at 8:30 a. m. in Hotel Harding, with the first session scheduled for 11 a. m. Subsequent sessions will be Wednesday at 1:30 p. m., a get-together dinner that night at the Marion Country club. Thursday morning at 9:30 a. m. and Thursday afternoon at 1:30.

To Meet in Lodge Hall

With headquarters in Hotel Harding, the delegates will assemble in the Eagles third floor auditorium for their business meetings. Business to come up includes the possible reorganization of the state association, along lines as yet not announced, election of officers and possible rescaling of dues.

Delegates will represent Ohio agencies and firms in the fire, casualty and liability lines of insurance. State officers are C. C. Rudibaugh of Youngstown, president, and H. L. Meek of Columbus, vice president and acting secretary-treasurer. Members of the executive committee are W. E. Flickinger of Cleveland, E. J. Bundenthal, chairman, of Dayton, F. P. O'Connor of Lima, J. E. Greenwood of Warren, and H. S. Martin of Toledo.

Rev. Howard L. Olewiler, pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, will deliver the invocation at the opening session Wednesday at 11 a. m. A. C. Bachman, president of the Marion Association of Fire Insurance Agents, will give the welcome address, with C. R. Lawrence, president of Canton Insurance club, responding. Rudibaugh will then speak. Meek will give the report of the acting secretary-treasurer as the closing part of the session.

An address, "Association Work" by Clyde B. Smith of Lansing, Mich., past president of the National Association of Insurance Agents, will open the afternoon session. Discussion of reorganization and committee appointments will fill out this session.

At the Country club dinner Wednesday night, Charles L. Gandy of Birmingham, Ala., president of the national association, will be the speaker, with Asa Queen of Marion as toastmaster. A program of entertainment and dancing will follow.

Wednesday afternoon women attending the convention will be entertained at a bridge party in the Hotel Harding ballroom. Thursday morning they will be guests on a sightseeing tour of the city.

Herbert Boynton of Toledo will lead a discussion on "Vacancy Permits" at the Thursday morning session. Another discussion, "Automatic Cancellation Clause," will follow. An executive meeting for local agents only will conclude this session.

Election Scheduled

The concluding event of the convention will start at 1:30 Thursday afternoon, with the reports of committees, election of officers and winding up of unfinished business.

Entertainment at the Country club dinner will include music by an orchestra conducted by Gene Williams of Marion; "The Convicts Male Quartet of Leavenworth," by members of the Toledo delegation, and "Before and After," a two-act playlet by members of the Cleveland delegation.

DEMOCRATS IN FIGHT OVER CHAIRMANSHIP

Nolan Backers Charge Administration With Using Patronage Club.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22—Mrs. C. D. Cussins, Franklin county member of the Democratic state central committee, charged today that the state administration is "using the patronage club" in opposition to the candidacy of John W. Nolan of Steubenville for state Democratic chairman.

At about the same time, Sunday Robert J. Bulkley was accused by Miss Marie Dickson of Steubenville of "inconsistency" in recommending Dr. Carl Watson of Findlay for the chairmanship. Dr. Watson, she said, is a staunch prohibitionist.

Nolan, Jefferson county chairman, Dr. Watson, Hancock county party worker and agriculturist, and Burr Cosgrove of Cleveland, with Earl R. Lesch, Lima editor, all have been mentioned in connection with the office.

The state committee will meet here Thursday.

Blasting up her assertion that the White administration was working against Nolan, Mrs. Cussins said that when she attempted to have Bulkley obtain a five-day pass at the Ohio fair she was told that such days would have to be given against Nolan.

Board Announces New County Fair Features

Coon Chase and Quilt Show Planned in Effort To Stimulate Interest in Exposition.

Two new features, which fair officials hope will stimulate interest in the county's annual agricultural exposition, have been announced for the Marion county fair, Sept. 12, 13, 14 and 15.

The latest addition to the fair program is a coon chase, to a run Wednesday, Sept. 13, at 10 a. m. on the fairgrounds. Cash prizes, not yet fixed, will be given. A small entry fee will be charged, C. G. Ritzler, secretary, said.

This event will be in charge of R. O. Winch of Tully township. Entries are to be filed with Secretary Ritzler at the fairgrounds on Sept. 11, 12 or 13. The event will be open to dogs whose owners reside in Marion county or an adjoining county.

As in other 'coon chases, a tame raccoon will be led over a circuitous route and placed in a tree on the grounds. Dogs entered in the chase will be started on the trail, and the first dog to "tree" the coon will be the winner.

The other new feature for this year will be a quilt show, announced several weeks ago. Fair officials today said $5, $3 and $1 will be the first, second and third prizes, respectively, in each of three classifications in which quilts may be entered. The classifications are applique, new pieced and old pieced quilts. Mrs. Gail Smith of Waldo will be in charge of the show. She will determine the classification in which each entered quilt will be shown.

An entry fee of 50 cents will be charged for each quilt, in line with the board's policy of charging an entry fee of 10 per cent of the first prize in a majority of exhibits.

Pieced quilts have been classified as "old" and "new" to enable owners of quilts which have been faded, through use, to compete separately from owners of unused quilts, Mr. Ritzler said.

Further arrangements for the 1933 fair will be made at a meeting of the fair board Friday at 1 p. m. in the office of the board of elections.

LOCAL DOCTORS WILL ATTEND STATE MEET

Dr. E. H. Morgan Is Delegate To Sessions at Akron Sept. 7-8.

Dr. E. H. Morgan and Dr. C. J. Altmaier are official delegate and alternate, respectively, to the eighty-seventh annual meeting of the Ohio State Medical association Sept. 7-8 in Akron.

Dr. E. L. Brady, president of the Marion Academy of Medicine, Dr. J. W. Jolley, secretary, and Dr. Carl W. Sawyer are among those who plan to attend.

The annual gathering will be preceded on Wednesday, Sept. 6, by medical and surgical clinics at the various Akron hospitals and a golf tournament at the Portage Country club. A session of the House of Delegates on Thursday morning will officially open the meeting. Dr. George Edward Follansbee of Cleveland, chairman of the judicial council of American Medical association will be the luncheon speaker. The six scientific sections will meet Thursday afternoon and at night the annual association banquet will be given. Two general scientific sessions will be held on the final day. Officers and councilors for the ensuing year will be elected and a place for the 1934 meeting selected.

PUPILS TO PLAY IN MEEKER RECITAL

The second of a series of piano recitals given by pupils of Miss Dorothy Canouse of LaRue, will be presented Thursday night at the Meeker M. E. church. The program will be given at 8 and will be open to the public. A cantata, "Deeds of Kindness," will be presented by 50 children from Agosta.

Those taking part in the piano recital are Robert Patton, Merlyn Sprague, Fay Showalter, Frances Green, Freda Maxine Showalter, Esther Wiley, Maxine Harrison, Anna Kathryn Munson, Doris Parker, Jean Esther McMaster, Gerald Wolfe, Dorothy Ann McMaster, Grace Fout, Teresa Snyder, Maria Fout, Helen Kraner, Norman Fout, Betty Withrow, Margaret Fout, DeVer Haas, Jack Metz, Billie Johnston, Guy Collins and Evelyn Porter.

DROUTH GREATER THAN 3 YEARS AGO

By International News Service

WOOSTER, O., Aug. 22 — The drouth of 1933 is much more severe than the parching drouth of 1930 which burned crops throughout the United States, in the opinion of state and federal agricultural officials here.

Figures show that rainfall here in June and July of 1930 was 4.5 inches, while it was only 3.5 inches this year.

Candidates File Accounts of Expenses in Primary

Clarence A. Bolin of 542 Mound street spent $86.78 in his successful campaign for nomination as the Democratic party's candidate for mayor in the Aug. 8 primary, his expense account, on file with the board of elections, shows. The account also lists contributions totaling $13 from individuals.

Mayor W. C. Phillians, who was unopposed as a candidate to head the Republican party's ticket in the municipal election next November, spent nothing in the campaign and had no receipts, his account shows.

The largest amount spent by any candidate, according to the partial list of expense accounts now on file, was $261.42, spent by Harry S. Kelleher of 174 Carhart street in his unsuccessful campaign for the Democratic mayoralty nomination. He also listed receipts amounting to $219.72, all from individuals.

Other Accounts

Expenses listed by other candidates follow: T. A. Allen, successful candidate for Republican nomination as auditor, $68; Theodore B. Ochs, Democratic nominee for city solicitor, $61.37; J. Luther Landes, who unsuccessfully opposed Mr. Allen, $38.85; J. Aultman Raub, unsuccessful candidate for Democratic nomination as auditor, $38.04; Wallace W. Thompson, Republican nominee for city treasurer, $29.54; Clarence W. Dutton, unsuccessful candidate for nomination for city auditor, $29.25; Harry L. Dowler, Republican nominee for city solicitor, $28.56; Frank J. Weber, Democratic nominee for auditor, $23.58; Z. P. Davis, unsuccessful candidate for Democratic nomination for solicitor, $21.50; Carl Rieger, unsuccessful bidder for Democratic nomination for auditor, $18.50; George H. Keeler, unsuccessful candidate for Democratic nomination for Third ward councilman, $7.17; D. J. Finley, unsuccessful bidder for Democratic nomination for Third ward councilman, expenditures totaling $6.55 and a donation of $2; W. C. Selanders, Republican nominee for Fourth ward councilman, $4; H. L. Brobeck, Democratic nominee for Third ward councilman, $3; J. E. Sexten, Democratic nominee for First ward councilman, $3; Irven Prettyman, unsuccessful candidate for Democratic nomination for First ward councilman, $1.50; A. C. Vogt, unsuccessful candidate for Republican nomination for councilman-at-large, $1.

Others Spent Nothing

Those who certified on their expense account blanks that they had neither expenses nor received donations follow: F. R. McDaniel, Democratic nominee for councilman-at-large; William A. Shuster, Republican nominee for councilman-at-large; H. H. O'Dowd, Republican nominee for First ward councilman; F. L. Stanley, Republican nominee for Fifth ward councilman; Earl R. Wilson, Republican nominee for Second ward at-large; Wilfred Towsend, Republican nomine efor Second ward councilman; Harry T. Bell, Democratic nominee for councilman-at-large; G. R. Henney, Democratic nominee for Fourth ward councilman; Miss Barbara Bingham, Democratic nominee for councilman-at-large; W. Kenneth Tobin, Democratic nominee for treasurer; F. M. Nations Gather in Effort To Solve Wheat Paradox

By The Associated Press

The paradox of wheat—of surplus and famine, of low prices and high—again confronts the nations.

Soviet Russia claims a bumper crop, but the price of bread is doubled; European countries have good harvests but there is famine among China's millions; the Argentine Bureau of statistics predicts a 5,000,000 bushel slump in world production, but prices are low.

Twenty-nine nations are represented in a conference seeking a solution to the problem, but not a few of them are taking measures to make their wheat markets self-sufficient.

The conference, conducted in London after two previous failures failed to reach an agreement on production and exporting, today considered four-part proposal which would bind importing nations to increase their purchases, to preserve the quality of breadstuffs, to adjust tariffs, and to declare in principle for modification of import restrictions.

The main exporting countries—the United States, Canada, Australia and Argentina—agree in principle on the necessity for a two-year program of cutting down acreages and exports and for a similar arrangement with Danubian nations.

There is another side of the picture.

Italy wants a sound internal wheat market, and plans to continue high import duties and other emergency measures to achieve that end.

These points are involved:

Sufficiently high duties to keep imported wheat from lowering prices; ample credit arrangements so farmers can store their stocks for better conditions, regulated marketing; the obligation of millers to use a very high percentage of native wheat.

France has guaranteed producers a price of $1.65 a bushel at the farm, but there is a large crop, and the government, fulfilling its pledge, faces an unbalanced budget.

Germany has set about protecting her agricultural markets; Holland has trebled the percentage of home-grown wheat her millers must use; Spain is considering legislation to a like end; Scandinavian countries are prepared to act together in the interests of their farm markets; many countries have perfected, or are considering reciprocal agricultural-industrial pacts.

PETER KEIL, 82, DIES AT RESIDENCE HERE

Retired Employe of Huber Company Ill Three Weeks; Rites Thursday.

Peter Keil, 82, an employe of the Huber Mfg. Co. for 34 years before he retired, died last night at 8:15 at his home at 614 East Farming street. A complication of diseases caused his death after a three-weeks' illness.

Mr. Keil was a native of Baden, Germany, born July 4, 1851 to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Keil, natives of Germany. His wife, Mrs. Louisa Fischer Keil, preceded him in death in 1924.

The only surviving relatives are four grandchildren, Mrs. Raymond J. Mayfield of 656 Windsor street, and Harley, Wilbur and Verne Edwards of Binghamton, N. Y., two nephews and a niece, William and Keil Hochstetter and Mrs. Burnes Barker, all of Marion.

Mr. Keil was a member of Salem Evangelical church.

The funeral will be conducted Thursday at 2 p. m. at the home and at 2:30 p. m. at Salem church, in charge of the pastor, Rev. H. C. Ahrens. Burial will be made in the Marion cemetery. Friends may view the body at the home.

PASTORS, DELEGATE AT M. E. CONFERENCE

Three From Here in Cincinnati for Last German Church Meet.

Rev. Karl W. Patow of the Prospect Street M. E. church, Rev. Ernest Weiss of the Bethlehem-Zion M. E. church and Miss Frieda Wanner, lay delegate from the Prospect street church, left this morning for Cincinnati to attend the seventieth and last annual session of the Central German conference of the German M. E. church.

Bishop Edgar Blake of the English M. E. conference, will preside and will read the appointments Sunday afternoon after he has formally transferred the German churches into their contiguous English conferences.

The conference proper will convene Wednesday morning. Mayor Russell Wilson of Cincinnati will welcome the ministers at an opening service tonight.

NEW U. S. PRINCESS

The former Janet Snowden, of Newport, R. I., who, it was recently revealed, became Princess Francesco Don Caravita by virtue of her elopement and marriage to the Italian nobleman. Her sister created an international sensation last year when she eloped with Prince Geronimo Rospigliosi. The newlyweds are shown above.

FISHERMEN HOME FROM CANADA

C. A. "Hap" Boyd of 139 Johnson street and A. W. Bartholomew of Mansfield returned to their homes yesterday after a six- weeks camping and canoe trip in the Algoma district, Ontario, Canada. The outstanding catch of the trip, Boyd said, was a six and one-half pound speckled trout. This trout, he said, caught while still-fishing, is considered quite an unusual specimen.

BURTON ORA BURR, 60, SUCCUMBS SUDDENLY

Veteran Employe of Steam Shovel Company Drops Dead at Work.

Barton Ora Burr, 60, of 320 Kennedy court, a Marion Steam Shovel Co. employe for the last 18 years and a resident of Marion for 23 years, dropped dead at his work last night at 10:20. Death was due to a heart attack. For the last several years Mr. Burr had been employed as night janitor.

Surviving Mr. Burr are his widow, Mrs. Grace Simonton Burr, a daughter, Mrs. Helen Malarkey of Marion, and two sons, Willis at home and Marion of Savannah, Ga.

Mr. Burr was born Oct. 15, 1872, at Norwalk to Edwin and Louise Burr. He was married on Sept. 7, 1902.

Arrangements for the funeral have not been completed. Burial will be made either Thursday or Friday in the Norwalk, O., cemetery. Friends may view the body at the L. A. Axe funeral home on East Church street.

RICHLAND TOWNSHIP CANDIDATES NAMED

Democrats Hold Caucus With 126 Present; Salt Rock Meeting Thursday.

Richland township Democrats held a caucus last night and nominated candidates for township offices. One hundred twenty-six attended.

Those nominated are: trustee—George Axthelm, George Miller and J. R. Mullins; township clerk—William J. Loyer; justice of the peace—W. H. Mack; constable—C. W. Wick.

A Salt Rock township caucus has been called for Thursday night at the grange hall. Carl McKelvy, Republican central committeeman for the township, said the caucus probably would be attended both by Republicans and Democrats to nominate candidates for their respective parties. Ava M. Peters is the Democratic central committeeman.

ATTEND MEETING OF MEDICAL GROUP

Dr. and Mrs. C. G. Smith of South Prospect street, Mrs. S. W. Mattox of North Main street and Dr. H. E. Dwire of Bucyrus were in Columbus Sunday attending a meeting of the officers of the Ohio State Eclectic Medical association and the women's auxiliary. Dr. Dwire is president of the medical association.

It was decided to hold the annual meeting of the two groups the last of May, 1924, at the Deshler-Wallick hotel in Columbus. Dr. R. B. Taylor of Columbus was named chairman of the arrangements committee.

Y'S MEN MEET AT HOTEL FOR DINNER

Earl D. Sanem, a member of the organization staging a financial campaign for a Marion church, entertained the Y's Men's club at a dinner meeting last night at Hotel Harding. The members took part in an informal program of mental test questions asked by Mr. Sanem.

Marion Hinklin is chairman of arrangements for a dinner dance to be given Wednesday night, Aug. 30 at Hotel Harding. His assistants are Ray Sutton, Ralph Lewis, Ralph Carhart, John Bartram and Jack Weiss.

Mr. Lewis, chairman of the membership committee, announced that Dr. Albert Linscott had been voted into membership. The next meeting of the club will be held in two weeks.

MARION MAN HELD BY CLEVELAND POLICE

Merle Mason To Be Returned Here on Charge of Auto Theft.

Merle Mason, 26, of Marion, is to be brought here from Cleveland today on a charge of auto theft, following his arrest in Cleveland yesterday.

Cleveland police notified the Marion police department that Mason was arrested while driving a 1929 Cadillac sedan, owned by Mrs. R. W. Borden of Marion. The car was stolen Sunday night from near the Rainbow dancing pavilion on East Center street.

Authorities said this morning that either members of the police department or sheriff's deputies would be sent after the prisoner.

SPEAKEASIES HIT BY BEER

Only Larger Clubs Reported To Have Escaped Blow in Cleveland.

By International News Service

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 22—The "hole-in-the-wall" speakeasy is disappearing from Cleveland.

With legal beer being sold in practically every store and many of the places open dispensing whisky as well the small bootlegger is being choked out of business.

Gang murders and the many bloody battles resulting from struggles of these lords and "gin barons" over territories, have practically ceased.

Complaints of liquor-law violations are only one-third as large as during the prohibition days.

The elaborate "club" type of speakeasy is prospering more than ever before.

Arrests Same

Police have concentrated their efforts in eradicating the places where cheap whisky is sold to habitual drunkards.

The number of arrests for drunkenness has remained almost the same as before beer was legalized.

These facts became evident following a survey of the liquor situation made by police officials.

Legal beer has brought about the death of the apartment speakeasy, where home brew "Dago Red" was served to customers in the dining room of the bootlegger's quarters, the kitchen many times being used for the brewery.

While legal beer does not have quite the "kick" that home brew has, the places selling 3.2 beer are much more appealing than the dirty sprawls. Beer gardens, many with bands or orchestras, have sprung up and in almost every block there can be found restaurants making a specialty of selling beer.

In Other Rackets

With the demand for their product cut off the "big time" bootleggers have disbanded. For the most part they have gone into the slot machine or other rackets, but some have been reported to have entered the legal malt beer business, buying interests in legal breweries.

The notorious Mayfield road gang, and the gunmen of the "roaring Third" have been silenced.

Most noticeable among the many changes wrought by legal beer, has been the drop in the number of complaints received by the police. So far this year only 1,005 complaints have been registered. In other years, the number would be at least three times as large.

As "cut-throat" competition from the small bootlegger has dwindled, the "club" speakeasies have become increasingly prosperous. With some restrictions as to patrons, they are catering to larger crowds and selling more and better refreshments than heretofore.

Usually the "club" is located in very elaborate quarters, with a snappy orchestra, dance floor, immaculate tables, and shining bar. These places sell legal beer as well as the "hard" liquors. Their more experienced bar tenders can mix drinks much better than the small operator. Then too, fine wines and brandies may be obtained there.

Police tolerate the "clubs" to a large degree, as little trouble is reported from them. Their select guest list, and capable "bouncers" avert disturbances.

TOMATO CANNING INDUSTRY GROWS

By International News Service

WAPAKONETA, Aug. 22—Three years ago, a new industry. Today, a thriving business.

That's the history of the tomato-canning plants in Auglaize county. The five factories in the county devoted to the canning of tomatoes began operations in 1930, and have explanded their business yearly.

This season, when canning started for the year, approximately 300 persons were given employment. Two of the plants, the Diegel Packing Co. and the Macke Packing Co., are located near here. They employe about 100 persons.

Two are at St. Marys, the St. Marys Packing Co. where 100 are on the payrolls and the Vanderhorst Canning Co. where 30 are employed. The Minister Canning Co. furnishes employment to about 45 men and women. The St. Marys concern is the largest of its kind in the county, and has contracts for 400 acres of tomato land.

Many more residents of the county were given employment this season in picking the 900 acres of tomato land under contract.

CITY REVOLTS

By International News Service

SANDUSKY, O., Aug. 22—A $1,400,000 bond issue for construction of a municipal light plant will be submitted to the voters at the November election as this city joined the revolt against utility interests. The city commission approved the plan after the power company serving Sandusky refused to grant a request for lower rates.

WILMINGTON, Del.—Truck drivers are snoozing along Delaware's highways today, but it's due neither to the depression nor the recovery program.

State police are stopping trucks and, whenever they find the drivers or helpers have been working more than 16 hours, the troopers compel them to sleep. Confiscation of drivers' licenses for eight hours assures compliance.

The action comes as a result of three fatalities within an hour recently, each blamed on a dozing driver.

CHICAGO—A fortune of half a million dollars was on display in probate court yesterday. It belonged to Walter H. Strom, who became 21 that day and the bonds and mortgages representing his inheritance were brought to court for his and the judge's final inspection and approval. Then they went back to the band vault under guard.

AGELESS BEAUTY

Priceless is the glamour of a flawless skin. And Palmolive helps to bring out that skin-glamour.

THERE'S something breath-taking about a lovely skin. It makes a woman seem young, whatever her years may be. And if such a skin is your desire, let Palmolive—the soap of youth—do all it can to help you.

Palmolive is blended of gentle olive and palm oils. The secret of its beauty results lies not only in its beauty ingredients—but also in its exclusive blend—a blend which has made Palmolive the world's biggest selling beauty soap.

Olive oil—nothing else—gives it that soft, rich green color.

Olive oil, too, gives Palmolive a velvety lather which penetrates the tiny pores, freeing them of accumulations easily . . . leaving skin soft, smooth, gloriously clear and fresh.

Buy three cakes today. Then start this 2-minute treatment: every morning and evening, massage a rich lather of Palmolive Soap gently into the skin; rinse it off with warm water, then with cold. Do that twice every day for a month. Soon you'll discover what Palmolive can do to help you create a more glamourous skin and a more enchanting you.

This seal shows the exact amount of olive oil per cake used in the making of Palmolive.

American Influence Appears in Chinese Industrial Activities

By International News Service

CHANGHAI Following close upon the triumph of Major Jimmy Doolittle in beating out world competitors and selling the Chinese government two score American fighting planes the dramatic precominance of American industrial influence in China was again demonstrated upon the arrival of John Robert Grant who resigned as director of the United States mint at Washington to serve as technical advisor to the Central Mint here

The newly reorganized Chinese Mint is a monument to American efficiency and direction in Asia It was established 11 years ago when another American Clifford Hewitt came to China to supervise its erection wherein the best machinery was included until the plant today is estimated to be worth at least $10 000 000

With Mr Grants advice Director Lu Hseuh po and his staff of 180 in addition to the 300 workers, are turning out 200 000 shiny silver dollars daily These are of the new variety the die having been cast in the United States

Prior to his arrival the Mint in the past three months produced three million dollars which were condemned because the design was alleged to resemble a Japanese airplane and the Rising Sun flag of Nippon

Although what really was portrayed was an emblem of three birds in flight over a junk behind which was the sun the new dollars were considered too depictive of present Japanese aerial aggression in North China

HOPE FOR AIR MARK RESTS ON NEW PROP

Propeller Controlled from Cockpit of Plane Made in Cleveland.

By International News Service

CLEVELAND, O Aug. 22—Two daring American pilots are pinning their hopes for success on a project non-stop distance record flight over the ocean on a new type of propeller made here

Capt George Pond and Cesare Sabelli are planning to hop off from New York in the near future to bring back to this country the record recently annexed by two French flyers who made a single hop from the American metropolis to Rayack, Syria, a distance of 5,700 miles

Controlled mechanically from the cockpit, the new propeller a pitch type with 12 different settings is expected to make it easy for the Leonardo da Vinci their plane, to take off with as heavy a load of gasoline as possible and to obtain a maximum efficiency while cruising

The propeller has received numerous tests at Cleveland airport The same company which made the propeller for Wiley Post's round-the-world flight furnished the propeller of the Pond Sabelli adventure

Capt Pond is an experienced aviator A former lieutenant commander of aviation of the United States navy, he trained Sir Charles Kingford-Smith in blind-flying for 10 months before the latter flew across the Pacific to Australia

He also demonstrated blind flying to the late Floyd Bennett before Rear Admiral Richard E Byrd took him across the North pole The late Carl B Eckson was another pupil of Capt Pond

Sabelli an American citizen of Italian birth, abandoned a flight to Rome in the airplane Roma in 1928 when his engine failed 100 miles out to sea

Ohio NRA Head on Tour of State

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, Aug 22 Four cities—Springfield Dayton, Hamilton and Cincinnati—were on today's itinerary for Miss Mary E Woods of Cleveland, Ohio NRA administrator, who is on an airplane tour of the state in the interest of bringing the laggards" under the blue eagle.

Miss Woods spoke here last night, winding up the first day's travels which took her to Akron, Youngstown and Canton At these four cities she urged business men to cooperate to the fullest with the government in the drive to restore prosperity.

Speaking to an audience here, Miss Woods pleaded for faith in the government "It is your government It has never failed in a crisis, and by the grace of God, it never will," she declared

She said that only about one-third of the employers in Ohio had come under the blue eagle, but she expressed the hope and belief that "when the roll is called at the end of the month Ohio's name will be at the top of the list"

From questioning of veniremen came several facts concerning the evidence which is to follow

These include

The state will present a case built almost entirely on circumstantial evidence

The jury will not be locked up during the trial if the defense has its way

The state will demand the death penalty on conviction

The defense will devote its efforts toward establishing in the minds of the jurors a "reasonable doubt" concerning the circumstantial case of the prosecution.

The Way Back.

It has been observed many times in the last few years that the depression will be over a long time before the fact is generally realized. Employment figures for July shed a revealing light on the statement.

Secretary of Labor Perkins, analyzing the figures, remarks that employment is back to the level of October, 1931. Compared with June, there was an increase of 7.2 per cent in the number of persons employed and a gain of 7.9 in payrolls.

Chronologically, October, 1931, was a little more than half way through the course of the depression that ran parallel with the presidential term of President Hoover. Two years before, the first signs of economic collapse were manifest in the stock market crash.

It was approximately in the fall of 1931 that the national attitude began to change from one of despair over what was believed to be a transient difficulty to one of despair over a system that manifestly was out of gear. Banks were beginning to fail. Premier Laval of France had come to Washington to confer with President Hoover. As a result of their conversations, a statement was issued which said that the United States and France would uphold the gold standard. During October, Finland departed from the standard.

It was distinctly a period of depression and gloom. The problem of relief during the coming winter was being studied apprehensively. Yet, a little less than two years later information that employment has returned to the level of that time is decidedly reassuring. It signifies that the United States is emerging from the depression.

The way back is painful, but there is this compensating feature: it is traveled more hopefully than the tortuous trail which leads into a major depression. For tens of thousands who have found work this summer, the worst is over. For other thousands there has been made available new hope. May it not be said that a depression is over when a majority of the people begin to plan and work toward a definite goal of recovery?

Agents of Justice.

The precipitate action of the sheriff of Little Rock, Ark., in seizing pictures taken to bear out a charge that his prisoner had been beaten to obtain a confession inevitably arouses a suspicion that the sheriff did not want the pictures to get abroad. It is another case where many established instances of maltreatment of prisoners by agents of justice bear more weight than the denials of those agents.

The prisoner is Mark H. Shank, Akron resident accused of killing four persons with poison. The pictures were taken upon arrival of his wife and counsel in Little Rock. Seizure was made on the grounds that authorization for taking the pictures had not been given. Denial that force was used in obtaining a confession from Shanks was answered with a statement that Shanks would repudiate his confession and plead insanity.

It would be presumptive to judge the incident without possession of all the facts. No specific information is needed, however, to form the conclusion that if the pictures showed nothing there was no reason to confiscate them. On the other hand, if they showed evidence of mistreatment, the sheriff had good cause to seize them. As far as public opinion is concerned, the burden of proof in the incident rests on the agents of justice. Apparently, they have something to conceal.

When in Rome-----.

It is regretted—by sensible Germans most of all—that an American was handled roughly by a Nazi enthusiast for not throwing up his hand in the spectacular salute that goes with the swastika and Hitlerism. Sensible Germans, deploring the rowdyism of many of their countrymen who have been unbalanced by the privilege of wearing a uniform and exercising authority, realize that the American was a tourist and that other tourists, reading about his rough treatment, will not be so likely to choose Germany as a vacation spot.

According to descriptions of the episode, the American—a Brooklyn physician—did not fail to give the salute because of disagreement with Nazi policies, but because it didn't occur to him that any one would expect to give it. In the same way an ardent and intensely patriotic Nazi visiting Brooklyn might be careless enough to forget to remove his hat when the American flag passed him in a parade. There is a possibility that some equally ardent American patriot might clout him for his carelessness.

Generally speaking, it is a case of doing as the Romans do, not because the Romans are exemplary people but because it saves a lot of trouble. Germans are not ordinarily inclined toward violence, but Germany in these times is not a nation of settled habits. Visitors within its territory must expect to exercise more than usual patience. If it be healthier to conform than to take a stubborn stand for one's own beliefs, the philosophical method is conformance. The Hitler ministry has ruled that foreigners will not be expected to salute each and every appearance of a Brown Shirt, but it seems unlikely that the ministry's spotty control of its followers is sufficient to warrant anything but the utmost regard for native feelings by outland visitors.

AN EVENTFUL 30-YEAR HISTORY

The [illegible], Delaware & Marion interurban line has passed into history after contributing more than 30 years of service to this and other communities along its route. In the last few years, a profitable line of operations was a foregone conclusion, with only the delaying of a definite date for termination a point of uncertainty. The company, observing steadily increasing revenues which finally led to persistent operating deficits, foresaw the outcome long before the public was aware of the actual trend and began to take steps toward unburdening its business of an increasingly hopeless undertaking.

But the C, D & M interurban enterprise, conceived with visions of its becoming the main artery of a prosperous network of similar lines operating throughout this section of Ohio, did not give up the fight without a vigorous and valiant battle. When the period of decline began to show danger signs the interurban management used every possible means to invite and maintain patronage and combat the increasing competition of motor car transportation. New types of interurban chair cars were introduced and other improvements devised. Freight carrying facilities were added and this for a time promised to provide augmented revenue sufficient to restore the drooping enterprise to a paying basis.

It was a courageous effort to save a valuable property and industry for its investors and the public. For this effort, the men who were back of it deserve praise and thanks, which so seldom come to those who fight losing battles in the face of tremendous obstacles.

People of Marion do not need be reminded that the C. D. & M. traction line had an important part in the affairs of this community during one of the major periods of its progress. The account of Marion's industrial, business and civic advancement during these three decades would fill a volume of no small size and stand as one of the brightest records of community history. And it would not be doing justice to the C., D. & M. to neglect granting it recognition as a vital factor in the accomplishments of the 30 years.

During a period of steady and often rapid advancement, it was also necessarily notable for almost unprecedented changes in methods and customs. The public was constantly looking for new ways of doing things, greater efficiency, more facilities, increased speed in getting from one place to another. Consequently business and inventive brains were busy supplying these demands and as might be expected, the demands were met in full measure.

It was a time which provided fruitful opportunity for starting interurban lines, but also one which did not promise them a long and prosperous existance. Just when the first C, D & M. cars were coming into Marion, the more well-to-do citizens were beginning to travel in automobiles. It was too early then of course, to visualize these rather experimental motor cars as the forerunners of future competitors and conquerors of the interurban. Although the purchase price of these early products of the automotive industry left quite a hiatus in the buyer's bank account, they had the distressing habit of leaving passengers marooned on country roads and at other points far distant from home. For that reason, when citizens had visits to make in Prospect, Delaware or Columbus, they boarded an interurban car. It was cheaper, more comfortable and certainly more dependable.

Nevertheless that was the beginning of the race between traction lines and automobiles. All that has happened since then is a story familiar to everybody. Closing scenes in the final chapter have been recorded throughout the country during the last few years. One was enacted yesterday when the last C., D. & M. car completed its farewell trip.

It's the thing that we call progress. There has been considerably more of it in the last 30 years than during most periods of that length, and interurbans paid the penalty with a much briefer lease on life than is ordinarily granted transportation devices.

What next? Some who lay claim to visionary faculties keener than ordinary, peer into the air for future routes of popular travel. But in the meantime, automotive engineers are planning changes and improvements in motor transportation which are intended to eliminate all danger of successful competition, either on or above terra firma. It looks as though they are certain to succeed in doing this for many years. In the meantime, however, those who waged a losing battle for the interurbans will watch future developments with interest.

Comment of the Press

THE RUSSIAN BUGABOO.

In spite of the gory page in history being unfolded in Cuba, the bugaboosts are still shuddering in dark corners at the very idea of the United States granting recognition to Russia. They are the fellows who break out with goose pimples every time they see the word "communism" in the newspapers. They seem to think that it is something like yellow fever or voodooism; Heaven only knows what a dreadful spell it may put upon this country.

American institutions, hopefully enlightened since the days of the Liberty Boys of 76, would suffer immeasurably if their preservation were left to those folk who argue that recognition of Russia would facilitate the circulation of red propaganda in this nation. That premise, of course, is absurd. We hold not brief for the Russian social scheme. It may be the ultimate in mass striving for Utopia. Then, too, it may be all that the bugaboosts think it is. None the less, one must wonder at the mental processes of the persons who subscribe to the argument that diplomatic recognition of Russia would open the floodgates to Soviet propaganda and drag American democracy down into the mire of communism.

The Russian idea is not a physical contagion. We would not "catch it" by the mere chirographic act of recognizing the Russian government. If that were true, then the federal treasury must be well inoculated, for only recently we gave a loan to the Soviet for the purchase of Southern cotton. Imagine the South in the throes of communism! Pardon us while we chortle.

Whether or not we recognize Russia is of little moment during these momentous hours in our domestic affairs. But the fatuous argument that recognition would cause us to be deluged with the spewing of the Russian diabolo, the Soviet soapbox, is ridiculous. We recognized Turkey long before Mustapha Kemal succeeded the last sultan, and Turkish tobacco hasn't been popular in America since Turkish trophies gave way to "well, you walk a mile for one if you care to." Houston Post.

WHAT BUSINESS ASKS.

Many business people ask the question, how is trade going to be under the "new deal" which Washington is giving us? Can we adjust ourselves to it?

There is a reserve of enterprise in the American business man that can and does adjust itself to a great many situations which at the start look difficult. For an enterprising man on a desert island, and he will soon be making a living by supplying less energetic ones with clams and shellfish.

So, somehow, business will adjust itself to the new deal. But it does ask two things. First, some stability so it can know what it can depend on. Business is throttled if conditions are constantly changing. Second, a reasonable profit. When people have provided capital for business, they feel that capital ought to earn something. The profit may not be as large as it used to be, but the owner of capital is entitled to some return on it.—Newark Advocate.

Daily Guide to Health

BY DR ROYAL S. COPELAND.

Ptomaine Poisoning Health Menace.

A recent newspaper article tells of 75 workmen who were treated for severe ptomaine poisoning. They had eaten box lunches served to them while at work. Perhaps the food had been prepared under hygienic conditions, but it is probable proper precautions were not taken to prevent its spoilage.

Food poisoning or ptomaine poisoning, as it is more commonly called, is traceable to food that is allowed to spoil. Food that is improperly prepared or carelessly preserved easily spoils and speedily deteriorates. When this occurs, toxins or poisons are formed by the action of germs or parasites. These organisms multiply rapidly and may be so numerous as seriously to poison the system.

In former times ptomaine poisoning was an exceedingly common disorder. In fact, most digestive disturbances were believed to be due to this ailment. As a result of the improvements in refrigeration, preservation of foods and better means of transportation, cases of ptomaine poisoning are less common. But in spite of these splendid methods of shipping and other modern facilities intended to keep foods fresh, there is always the danger of spoilage because of individual carelessness.

Certain foods are more liable to spoil than others. For example, frozen foods and cold storage foods, improperly cared for meat, shell fish and other fish carelessly handled, spoil quickly after removal from containers. Foods that contain gelatine, as well as cream soups and sauces, cream filled desserts, unless properly looked after, quickly spoil and are capable of producing symptoms of ptomaine poisoning.

The sufferer from ptomaine poisoning complains of nausea and headache. In a more severe case, vomiting, abdominal pain, and complete prostration are alarming symptoms met in this condition. In an extreme case the progress of the disease is so rapid that death may occur within 24 hours.

Not by any means do nausea and headache invariably indicate food poisoning. These may be the result of some other digestive disturbance, or they may be symptoms of inflammation in the gall bladder, stomach or intestine. Persistent nausea, headache and vomiting must never be neglected. They may be the forerunners of some serious disturbance and should always be called to the personal attention of your physician.

Every case of this sort should be reported to the local health authorities, so that they may trace the source of the trouble. This action on your part may prevent a serious outbreak of food poisoning. When the source of contamination is determined and the food confiscated, much unnecessary suffering will be avoided.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

S.C.D. Q.—I am 24 years old, 6 feet tall, what should I weigh?

BREAKFAST GROUCHES.

Mr. Smith was a kind and devoted husband and father, in fact, a very unusual one, with an even temper and a keen sense of humor. He had but one outstanding fault which was a habit of waking up in the morning in a black mood which only his breakfast coffee could dispel. The whole house was tuned to this peculiarity, and everyone stepped softly in the early morning to avoid rousing his wrath.

In time the same peculiarity began to appear in his children, and they in turn grew up to be an early morning trial to their families, and so on from generation to generation. Of course, the children were said to have inherited the trait, and maybe in time it came to be known as a family idiosyncracy.

But in this case it was environment and not inheritance that was to blame. Had the children been trained from infancy to get up "on the right side of bed" they never would have developed early morning grouches, so long as their digestions functioned correctly.

In the average American household the early morning hours are a time of stress and strain, with fathers going to work and children to school, breakfast to be gotten and a multitude of last minute duties demanding attention.

But the day's rhythm may be made or marred during those hours, and for the sake of everyone concerned—and above all of the children—it should be made cheery if possible. For children are very susceptible to atmosphere and, like chameleons, will take on the coloring of their surroundings.

If the habit of early morning laughter is encouraged and gloom ridiculed, the accepted tradition of pre-breakfast blues might be stamped out in one generation.

A Washington Daybook

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, Aug. 22.—There are very definite reasons for this Republican campaign of silence which prevails at the present time.

EVERETT SANDERS

Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican National committee, attempted at the close of the special session of congress to conduct a series of political revival meetings, but there came reports that many of the Republican leaders objected strongly to his activity.

They expressed themselves as believing that this is no time for anything like that, for the reason, it was said, that there are no outstanding issues at the present.

At any rate, Sanders soon called off his conferences and made a trip to Europe.

The strategy of the G. O. P. leaders seems to be one of watchful waiting. They are waiting for the breaks.

Political precedents indicate to them that they will recapture some of the seats in the house that they lost in the Roosevelt landslide of last year.

Some of them feel perhaps that the hope of recapturing control of the house soon is a forlorn one, but that enough will return to the fold to give them something to work on.

Meanwhile thoughts of the presidential campaign in 1936 or contracting personal political ambitions take secondary places. Political parties usually return to power by trying first to gain control of one of the houses of congress.

• • •

The late Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania is credited with having said back in 1912, when told that the Republican party failed to renominate President Taft would result in a split and wreckage on election day: "What of it so long as we control the wreckage?"

Eight years later Penrose and the old guard Republicans were in complete political control of the country again. And that whether four, eight or 12 years was what Penrose had in mind.

• • •

Political issues will seem to be clarified as soon as congress gets back to Washington next January. It will be then that permanent legislation, embracing the workable parts of recovery machinery set up in the special session must be written into law.

Republicans are hoping that there is where they will begin to get the breaks, politically speaking. If not, then they are likely to keep silent.

RETRIBUTION FOR A MARTINET.

In 1792 Fort Hamilton, which stood where Hamilton stands today, was garrisoned by three companies of troops under command of Major Rudolph, a Virginian who had earned a reputation for being arbitrary and brutal in the treatment of the men under him. Because of this treatment seven soldiers decided to desert but fell into the hands of a Lieutenant Clark on their way to New Orleans, and they were returned.

Major Rudolph placed them before a court martial and three were sentenced to be hung, two to run the gauntlet and two to serve imprisonment. The three doomed men managed to get a plea to General Wilkinson at Fort Washington, who forwarded a respite. Major Rudolph got wind of it and rushed the execution so the men were hung before the respite order arrived.

General Wilkinson then gave Rudolph the choice of resigning his commission or being cashiered. He chose the latter, returned to Virginia and bought an export business. He commanded a ship with a cargo to Algeria, was captured by pirates and was hung from the yard arm of his own ship.

New York Day by Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Aug. 22 — The most striking figure among artists continues to be the black and white master, Charles Dana Gibson. Wherever he appears in public heads turn, even among those who are unconscious of his identity. I am told he is even better known in London.

Over there people follow in the manner of the small boy transfixed by a rare pompadour. Of enormous but well proportioned bulk, he has a patrician profile and heavy brow magnificent with the majesty of Michaelangelo. His walk is a stride without self-consciousness of celebrity.

His wife is one of the famous Langhorne beauties of Virginia, and as he is seldom seen without her, her matured stateliness adds panache to the mass attraction. Few successful artists have displayed such keen interest in the embryo artist struggling up. He has been a father confessor.

Like E. Berry Wall, Gibson clings to the extravagantly wide wing collar. While he contributes a pen sketch now and then to "Life," which he owns, he has little enthusiasm for the Gibson girl and tiptoeing Mr. Pipp which made him famous. His metier is now a broader palette with oils.

The Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND.

MODERN TAILOR-MAIDS.

Life is becoming as dizzy and bewildering as a Virginia reel.

You never know, when you open your morning newspaper, what new shock or surprise you will find in the first few pages. Or on which side of a question either of the sexes has taken a brand new stand, overnight.

One morning, we learn to our amazement that the men are going back to the Gay Nineties for their fall styles. And that Marlene Dietrich, the leader of the trousers-for-women crusade, has doffed her pants and is going in headlong for frills and petticoats and feathered hats.

Two bolts right out of the blue—in one newspaper!

• • •

It will be rather quaint and intriguing to see our modern he-men all dolled up in ascot ties, Picadilly collars, gay-colored waistcoats, gold watch-chains, spats and boutonnieres. And will they wear red under-flannels and carry canes and go in for charming manners to match?

Clothes do affect one's manners, somehow. No girl can be the same wild, daring Amazon or giddy jazz-baby in a long, trailing, ruffled skirt that she was in a pair of slacks or a flapper-frock. There is something about those skirts, which impels her to modesty and femininity and even inspires her to coquetry.

And, we doubt that a man wearing spats and a tail-coat and pearl gray gloves and a boutonniere could have the heart to make himself look silly by putting on a paper cap and playing clown with a rattler and a penny-whistle. Or by mauling a lady and kissing her on the ear, on the way home in a taxi-cab.

• • •

So far as I am concerned, Marlene can doff her pants without bringing a tear to my eyes. I rejoice that the trouser-fad never really "took." Next to a tight shoe of a steel-corset, the most uncomfortable garment ever invented by man, is pants!

I've tried every variety of pajama, from the wide, frilly, skirty kind to linen slacks and the strictly tailored sort. But, it's like choosing among summer hotels; they're stuffy and hot and uncomfortable, and you thank Heaven you can get out of them and back into a cool, comfy house dress.

Still, I trust that the trouser-mania has done its bit, by bringing back the smart tailored styles which struck the town last spring. Somehow, a woman never looks quite so well groomed and perfectly gotten up in anything else as she does in a smart, well-tailored suit. Or quite so modish and well-bred.

If Marlene Dietrich's little excursion into the masculine realm has brought back the feminine tailored suit to stay, we modern women may pride ourselves on our "intelligence" and all that sort of thing. We have a little leisure and a little spare matter to spend on some new [illegible] sides matching feathers and [illegible] bons and stockings—and [illegible] our reputation as "the best-dressed women in the world."—Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Glimpses of the Past

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Wednesday, Aug. 22, 1923.

Lieut. Cornelius McFadden of Philadelphia and Captain D. F. Hill of Leominster, Mass., officers in the U. S. Marine corps, were killed when two marine corps airplanes collided 3200 feet above ground near Pensacola, Fla.

Reports of frost were received by the U. S. weather bureau from Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin. The coldest Aug. 22 in the history of the Detroit weather bureau was reported. The temperature registered 46 degrees above zero.

Postmaster French Crow received word that contracts for an addition to the postoffice building had been awarded to Garber & Cissell, Inc., of Bethlehem, Pa., and that work would start within a few days.

In an editorial in Colyer's Eye, a magazine published at Chicago, Marion was praised for its attitude in handling the throng which came here on the day of the Harding funeral. The editorial said in part: "For one day at least the dollar was dethroned and money had ceased to be the standard. Only the most positive necessaries, such as food, could be purchased anywhere in Marion and sandwiches sold at the usual Marion five and ten-cent rates. The visitor departed with renewed faith in human nature."

A new brake lining standard to be attached to an axle or housing of an automobile also serves as a micrometer gauge to aid in adjusting brakes.

ACCUSED POLOIST

Cecil Smith, famous Texas polo-ist, ranking No. 2 player of the United States, did not allow the accusation of criminal attack brought against him by Miss Eugenie Rose, 23-year-old nurse, of Chicago, to influence his playing ability. Arrested and released on bond, Smith played the game of his life in the East-West polo World Series at Lake Forest, Ill., scoring six goals for the West which won 12-6.

BIG CATCH MADE ON FISHING TRIP

Two hundred and twenty-five pounds of great Northern pike, bass, muskellunge and crappies are the evidence W. M. McKibben of five miles east of Marion and Carl Sloop of Delaware sent and brought home from their recent two-weeks fishing trip to Big Pelican Lake in Orr, Minn. The "muskies" weighed up to 18 pounds and averaged three and one-half feet in length.

The two men went to Northland lodge, 30 miles from the Canadian border. The first half-day Mr. McKibben caught 25 pounds of fish, the limit allowed for shipping, and sent them home.

When they returned, Mr. Sloop brought with him 260 pounds, the result of two days fishing. He divided the catch with his friends. He is the son of Mayor C. W. Sloop of Richwood.

TWO CARS DAMAGED

Slight damage was done when automobiles driven by Bernard Miller of Green Camp and Wilfred Ivard of Detroit, Mich., sideswiped Saturday night north of the Pennsylvania tracks on North Main street, Sheriff C. C. Fye reported. Miller was attempting to pass Ivard's automobile when the mishap occurred, it was reported.

Dr. Amy Whalen, 35-year-old dentist of Pomeroy, O., expressed her belief that she will live at least three years longer by giving a three-year subscription for a magazine.

2 Men Pay $3.50 To Square Selves with Consciences

The sum of $3.50 in "conscience money" received recently by the Marion Ice & Cold Storage company put at ease two young men determined to make right the mistakes of their earlier life and restored the coffers of the Salvation Army here. The company now is the City Ice & Fuel Co.

Three dollars of the money was refunded by a young man who stated that some 14 or 15 years ago, when he was quite a young lad he used to assist one of the delivery men, and on different occasion they "knocked down" on the company by a double use of the ice tickets. Since that time he has become a christian and is leaving no stone unturned to right himself. The 50 cents was refunded by a young man who has been "snitching" ice from the company.

The money was turned over to Captain John Hunter of the Salvation army by John Lockstead, present manager of the ice company. He plans to use it in helping to finance gymnasium equipment in the army recreational hall.

JOHN BARRYMORE IN PICTURE COMING TO PALACE WEDNESDAY

The screen is snatching avidly at the Broadway stage successes and among the plays most urgently sought was "Reunion in Vienna," which will be the Palace attraction Wednesday and Thursday.

JOHN BARRYMORE

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne created the stage roles that John Barrymore and Diana Wynyard bring to the screen. Frank Morgan is cast as Miss Wynyard's husband, and in the supporting cast are May Robson, Henry Travers, Una Merkel and Bodil Rosing.

The picture was directed by Sidney Franklin who was responsible for such hits as "Private Lives," "The Guardman," and "Smilin' Through." Adrian, famous Hollywood stylist, designed all of the costumes."

MYSTERY-ROMANCE AT MARION

Mae Clarke, Alan Dinehart and Neil Hamilton are the principals in "As the Devil Commands," which opened a two-day stay today at the Marion. The story deals with a crafty lawyer who seeks to commit a perfect murder and fasten the crime on his rival in love to get him out of the way. Keene Thompson wrote the story. One of the properties was an ivory chess set valued at $500.

Nothing Left

(Will Rogers Special)

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—We ... "Hill Billies" beat the ... and took the polo championship of the world right out of the drawing rooms into the barn house, and she won't go east for years, for the west always thought you had to have a birth certificate to play it.

Now every cowpuncher is herding in the heifers with a corn plaster saddle and "hay heavers" have changed a pitch fork into a polo mallet. Twenty thousand Chicagoans saw Sunday's social massacre.

From now on west of the Mississippi, "Old Dobbin" plays in the fields only till 4 o'clock, when he will be washed, scrubbed, his teeth polished and he goes out on the lawn to cavort in erstwhile social recreation."

Poor old society. Nothing exclusive left. Movie folks out-married and out-divorced 'em. Common folks took their cocktails. "Neat" society took to bridge. Now polo has gone to the buckwheat belt.

Yours,

Will Rogers

Homemaker's Question Box

Question—What causes a fuse to blow when I plug in the washing machine? The circuit is apparently not overloaded and all appliances are in good condition.

Answer—Such a case frequently occurs with a washing machine. A small load may already be connected on the circuit, and a washing machine which should normally use between 300 and 400 watts is connected and the motor turned on and the fuse blows. This may be due to the fact that just as the motor starts, the power requirement is much higher than the 300 to 400 watts required to keep it in operation. This is more noticeable when the motor has not been in operation for some time, or when it is new or the wrong oil has been used and it is gummy. When possible the motor should be allowed to operate a few minutes before the washing machine is put in gear. Such occurrences as this may often be prevented by disconnecting the load already on the line and leaving it disconnected until the motor is warmed up. If a motor-driven appliance, such as a wringer, is stalled while in operation the fuse will sometimes blow, in which case it is serving in its capacity as a safety device.

(Answer by home management specialist, Ohio Agricultural Extension Service).

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX
Desperate Attempt

He stood there watching. The figure ran back to the power house. The flames began to mount higher. And he could see Lazarre making desperate efforts, as the flames licked along the front wall behind him, to wiggle farther back from the threshold, winning his way by a hopeless inch or two at a time.

He could see Dollaire's men coming out of the power house with their full of little packages and boxes that contained he did not know what. And because there would be any more firing, he knew the "remaining members" of the club were rounded up somewhere down there on the shore, routed and beaten.

A nightmare? It was no nightmare. It was real enough. It was his brain that was reeling with the horror of it. To stand here helpless! In another five minutes less than that—the flames would reach that open doorway—the dark object lying there still well beyond the threshold. Why didn't Lazarre move faster? The fool was wounded, of course, but he wasn't dead like Kenniston. Why didn't he—

A low, startled cry came suddenly from behind him. He jerked his head around. Someone was standing there on the path within a yard of him—a girl—shadowy—His mind flashed back into action.

"Germaine!" he said hoarsely.

"Colin!" She was beside him now. "What is it? What has happened? I heard a lot of shots being fired and then an explosion. And—and you didn't come back. I couldn't stay there any longer. I—"

"My wrists!" he broke in tensely. "Untie them, dear—as quickly as you can."

"Oh!" she cried in a low, shocked voice. "I didn't see. Colin, they're bleeding."

"It's nothing serious. Can you manage it?"

"Yes, in just a minute. Tell me—"

"Not now! There isn't any time!" His words were coming in short, jerky sentences. "You should not have come, but thank God you did. You must go back to the launch the instant I'm free. Before you are seen. Don't leave it again. Wait for me there."

"Wait for you!" A sudden fear was in her voice. "Colin, what do you mean? What are you going to do?"

"The fire. Lazarre's over there by the clubhouse—wounded." He was still jerking out his words. "The flames aren't far from the doorway now. That's where he is, just inside the doorway. But there's still a chance that it's not too late. I've got to get him out if I can."

She was working frantically at his wrists.

"But you can't reach him!" she protested anxiously. "There are a lot of men around that other building. You would be seen the moment you stepped out from these trees here."

"No!" he answered quickly. "I'll keep among the trees and go around this end of the clearing. It's scarcely any farther, and I can get in through the back of the clubhouse that way."

"Then I could go too," she asserted. "I might be able to be of some help. There—that awful thing is off at last!"

• • •

"THE only way you can help any more now is to take care of yourself." He was rubbing the bruised skin of his numbed wrists to restore the circulation. "Anything else is impossible, Germaine. You must get back to the launch at once."

"But, Colin, I"—her voice broke in a half sob—"I can't!"

"Germaine," he said huskily, "every second is counting. You've already done far more than your share—don't let that go for nothing now. For God's sake, dear—quick!"

"Oh, Colin!" she whispered, as she clung to him desperately for an instant—and then, turning, sped back along the path.

And then Colin was running too—but stumbling at times as he made the short circuit of the clearing. Lazarre! No, it wasn't just Lazarre. Any man! He would have done it for any man who was trapped there as Lazarre was. There was nothing heroic about it—just to get in through the back of the clubhouse. Germaine! God, her courage . . . !

And so he ran, keeping close to the outer edge of the trees, the flames and the moonlight helping him to pick his way. It was not far. He was at the rear of the clubhouse now. There was a back veranda—steps—close to the trees—not much clearing had been done here.

He broke through the trees and ran up the veranda steps. The back door was unlocked. He flung it open and stepped inside. A glare of light from the front of the bungalow showed him the way. He raced forward. A swirl of smoke choked him—stopped him.

The smoke cleared away. He went on again. Leaping shadows caricatured a radio, lounging chairs, a table, and a settee fantastically. This was the living room. There, beyond, was the front door, open, that gave on the veranda—and, just inside the doorway, a dark shape huddled on the floor.

Lazarre! That was Lazarre, of course! He lunged forward. A wave of heat that scorched his lungs, robbing him of his breath, drove him back. Queer that he could see out through that open door! No one seemed to be coming and going in and out of the power house any more. He lunged forward again—reached the huddled form on the floor.

"Lazarre!" he called out. "Lazarre!"

There was no reply. He dragged the man a foot or two back into the room and bent down to pick him up in his arms.

He cursed his wrists again. His hands seemed to be detached from his arms. Lifting the man in his arms, he staggered across the living room and out onto the rear veranda. He sucked in the fresh air avidly as he staggered down the steps.

• • •

THE man in his arms stirred—mumbled deliriously.

"W.P. W.P. Tell the Wine Press to get Dollaire. Tell the Wine Press—dye hear—tell 'em! It's Dollaire—damned scum—tell 'em . . . !"

The words were thudding at Colin's brain as he reached the bottom of the steps and laid the other on the ground. W.P. Yes, that stood for Wine Press—but what was the Wine Press? What did that mean?

But that could wait. Where was the man wounded? How badly was he hurt? The flames from the side of the clubhouse threw into fitful relief a white, ashen face, a blood-soaked shirt—and the man was still mumbling in delirium, but Colin could not catch the words now.

He tore the shirt open. Of course it was Lazarre. Bouchard had said so. And there was the scar on the right shoulder to which Reddy had referred—a long, jagged cicatrice running parallel with the shoulder blade. But he had not torn the man's shirt open to look for that scar. He had not thought of the scar, or had any doubt in his mind but that it was Lazarre; he had torn the shirt open to look for Lazarre's wound.

And now his lips tightened. There were a good many wounds. Shotgun wounds. Lazarre's body was peppered with them. He did not know how serious they were. What was he to do? If Lazarre—

He rose suddenly to his feet. From the back of the clubhouse here he could not see the power house; but shouts reached him now, volleying English oaths—coming nearer. That answered his question. There was nothing more that he could do for Lazarre now—except leave him to his friends.

Yes, and—he smiled grimly—it would be just as well, not only for the sake of Lazarre, but for Germaine's and his own, if he were not called upon now to explain his presence here!

He stepped quickly back in amongst the trees that were only a few yards off, and waited. They would salvage what they could, no doubt, and the only way they could get into the club at all now was by way of the back door, so they were bound to see Lazarre lying there. But he must at least make sure of that, for the fire would—His mind swerved off at a tangent. Dollaire must have collected his loot and escaped.

To Be Continued.

Given in Marriage

BY ADELE GARRISON

The young people, discovering the ruse of the honeymooners, start after them.

"WHAT in tunket!" Sam Ticer burst into the kitchen from the laundry, as he heard the blast of the horn from his son Jerry's car. Mrs. Ticer followed him, her round face filled with alarm.

"What do you suppose he's blowing for?" she asked. "Something must be the matter with his car."

"Whatever it is, you mustn't go," I told them firmly. "Remember, Hank and Bill in Noel's car have just seen two people, whom they believe to be you two, going across the fields. In that belief they went back to Noel's car, but if they should see you now they would promptly guess the truth, give the alarm, and Noel and Mary would not be able to get away unobserved, as they have planned."

"Yes, I see your point," Mr. Ticer said, "but somebody ought to go and see what's the matter."

"Vot's matter mit dot Jeem," Katie asked, using the phraseology she invariably employes in speaking of her husband. "Now Meester Noel and Mees Mary safe away, he no need to stand guard down here any longer. Shall I tell heem go ofer und find out vot matter mit Jerry's car?"

"Yes," I decided instantly. "But call out to him loudly, just as if Mr. and Mrs. Ticer really had gone over there."

"Sure! I know," Katie answered, and with a fever of impatience I listened while she called to her husband.

"Jeem! Oh, Jeem!"

From a club of lilacs near the door, where he had been standing, Jim's voice came cautiously:

"What do you want?"

"Don't you hear dot horn?" Katie demanded. "Dot means Jerry in some trouble mit dot car. Und his fader und moder, dey too tired to valk home dees night. So you get ofer dere double qveeck."

But suppose those young folks come out here and start to follow—" Jim began, until Katie's harsh whisper silenced him.

"Vill you shut oop and do vot Meesis Graham tells you, instead of standing dere shooting your mout off like vun machine gun?" she demanded. And Jim emerged from behind the lilacs.

"I didn't know Mrs. Graham wanted me to do it," he said. "I thought it was some of your dumb foolishness."

And with that strictly masculine retort Jim started toward the field at a brisk pace, while Katie and I and the Ticers fairly held our breaths until he reached there.

Evidently the trouble was slight, for it was the matter of but a minute or two, after Jim reached the car, before the noise of the car advancing across the rough fields could be plainly heard. Then, with a sudden remembrance of Marion waiting on the upper floor, I rushed out of the kitchen and up the back stairs, to find Marion standing at the head of the stairs, anxiously waiting.

"They must be at the Ticers by now," I whispered.

"Then I'm off," she whispered back. "Don't let anybody see us talking together."

"I'm going back to the kitchen at once," "I told her, and, turning, made my way back again to where the Ticers and Katie were excitedly discussing the flight.

Avis Discovers the Plot

"If you're careful to keep out of sight," I told Mr. and Mrs. Ticer, "they'll all be swarming out to Noel's car presently, thinking that they'll catch them."

The door behind me—the one leading into the dining room—suddenly opened, and Avis Arlen put her head through the aperature.

"Oh, please excuse me!" she said. "I didn't know anybody was here. I just wanted a drink of water. Oh! What?"

Her eyes had fallen upon Mr. and Mrs. Ticer, and with a little squeal she turned and darted through the door.

Awful Looking Eruptions over Face and Neck. Cuticura Healed.
"My face and neck were affected with blackheads. After a while these turned into big, sore eruptions that were very painful. They scaled over and were scattered over my face and neck making them very awful looking. My face was terribly irritated by scratching for they burned terribly. This caused me to lose much sleep.
"This trouble lasted six or seven months. Then my mother told me about Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent for a free sample and then purchased more and at the end of two months I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Lavoy Little, 1225 Ohio Ave., Wichita, Kans., Jan. 31, 1933.

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, Aug. 23.

According to the lunar transits operating on the affairs of this day there should be prosperity, progress and a pleasant and happy state of personal affiliations. The "luminaries" as well as Jupiter and Venus in benefic lunar aspects presage all manner of successful, profitable and agreeable activities, with high hopes and aspirations pointing to cherished goals, in both business and private life.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a happy, prosperous, pleasant year, with advancement, preferment of those in high places, benefits and solid support for business projects and high ambitions from those friendly in both business and personal contacts. It is a time for forging for high goals.

A child born on this day should be kindly, friendly, lean toward "big business" because of organizing and executive qualities. It should reach high place and be esteemed.

Notable nativity: Oliver Hazard Perry, naval officer.

Epworth Tops Reformed; City Series Opens Wednesday

FIVE-RUN UPRISING IN FIFTH GIVES TITLE TO METHODIST NINE

Schwaderer Combed for 10 Hits, Including Homer by Judge Martin.

It took the Epworth Seniors some time to get around to it but they have finally packed the championship of the No 2 Sunday school league in the bag and earned for themselves the right to play in the Little World series for the city championship The Methodists climbed into the champion's seat yesterday at Lincoln park when they marked up a 6 2 victory over First Reformed in a play-off game

Heralded as a pitching duel between two of the city's classiest twirlers, Maury Whitcum of Epworth and Dale Schwaderer of First Reformed, the game was exactly that for four innings but after a big Epworth uprising in the fifth it could hardly continue under that classification Epworth broke loose for five runs in the fifth and those five were enough to bring them from behind and put the championship in the bag.

Reformed Scores First

Reformed drew first blood in the championship battle, scoring in the second inning when Howard Ritzler doubled for the first hit of the game and romped home as Mitchell smacked a triple into right center field. Judge Martin, Epworth left fielder, tied it up in the fourth when he smacked a line drive into left center for a home run.

Reformed promptly moved out in the front again in the last of the fourth when an error, a hit and two long flies brought Dutch Klingel home with another tally. The big uprising, however, came in the first of the fifth.

Maury Whitcum, the first man up, went out easily enough but Wolfe, the next batter, cracked a single and Don Penry drew a walk. Marquis and Red Whitcum hit safely and Judge Martin struck out. Larry Edgington continued the assault with a two-bagger and Ballenger followed with another single. Gustin ended the uprising by popping out to shortstop but five runs were in and Epworth was leading 6-2.

Easy for Whitcum

With a four-run lead, Whitcum had little to worry about. His tosses didn't have nearly as much stuff on them as usual and they lacked the characteristic zip but he was still tough enough to stop Reformed with only two more hits the rest of the game. Whitcum was nicked for five hits in the seven innings. Schwaderer gave up 10. Schwaderer struck out three batters and Whitcum five. Schwaderer issued three passes, one an intentional one and Whitcum walked one.

Reformed had distinct advantage in the field, playing errorless ball while the Methodists booted four chances. Bill Creasap, young center fielder for Reformed gets the credit for the flashist play of the game. He raced far back into center field in the sixth inning to pull down what looked like a sure home run for Maury Whitcum.

Batteries and score by innings:

Epworth	000	150	0	—	6	10	4
Reformed	010	100	0	—	2	5	0

Epworth, Whitcum and Wolfe; Reformed, Schwaderer and Howison

CHILDREN'S HOME TIES MARION A. C.

The Marion County Children's home softball team held the Marion A. C. to a 5-5 tie score yesterday in a game played at the Home. The Marion A. C. team scored five times in the first inning and then booted the ball around enough to allow the Home team to knot the count.

Batteries and score by innings:

Marion A. C.	500	000	000	—	5	9	4
Home	002	010	200	—	5	4	1

Marion A. C., Primmer and J. Bintz; Home, Wade and Kerr.

RICHWOOD WINNER OVER WALDO, 6-2

The Richwood baseball team captured a 6-2 decision from Waldo Sunday afternoon at Richwood. Griffith allowed the losers five hits while Richwood banged out eight off the combined efforts of two Waldo twirlers.

Batteries and score by innings.

Waldo	000	002	000	—	2	5	2
Richwood	020	010	30*	—	6	8	1

Waldo, Miller, Gorby and Barr, Richwood, Griffith and Stutz.

Richwood will play at Johnstown next Sunday.

CAREY SEMI-PROS TAKE SLUGGING BEE

Don Donelson's Carey Semi-Pros took a slugging bee from the Tiffin Americanas Americas Sunday by a 17-10 score. Both teams slugged the ball hard and neither played very well in the field, although only five errors went into the records.

The winners collected five home runs. G. Orians clouted safely four times in five trips to the plate for Carey.

Batteries and score by innings:

Tiffin	005	400	001	—	10	16	2
Carey	241	005	05*	—	17	18	3

Tiffin, A. Burns, Baxa and Ralrick, Rohrback; Carey, G. Walborn and L. Keckler.

NOT THROUGH YET

Ethan (Red) Faber, Chicago White Sox spitball pitcher, is almost 50 years old but he is still able to give some of the youngsters lessons when it comes to flinging. Faber twirled seven innings against the hard hitting Yanks yesterday and gave two hits. The game went 18 innings to a 3-3 tie.

YANKS AND CHISOX BATTLE 18 INNINGS TO 3-3 DEADLOCK

Darkness Finally Halts Hostilities; Cleveland Downs Red Sox, 10-1.

By The Associated Press

All but hopelessly outdistanced in the pennant race, the New York Yankees still hang on to their knack for setting up new records of one description or another.

This time, though, it's only a new seasonal endurance mark for the American league which they established with the help of the Chicago White Sox yesterday in an 18-inning battle that wound up in a 3-3 tie and left the Yankess still eight and a half games behind the idle Washington Senators.

Ended by Darkness

Darkness finally broke up a duel which the Yankees twice apparently had won—first in the ninth and again in the eleventh. Through eight innings, Charley Devens and Milt Gaston pitched scoreless ball and then the Yankees pushed over a run with a three-hit attack in the ninth it seemed to be over. Devens had allowed only two hits but Al Simmons started the ninth with a single, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on a long fly by Red Kress off Herb Pennock, who relieved Devens.

In the eleventh the Yanks scored twice on hits by Dixie Walker and Ben Chapman, a pass and an infield out but the Sox came back again to tie the score when Evar Swanson singled with the bases filled. After that it was a scoreless duel between two of the league's oldest twirlers Pennock and Red Faber.

Equals Record

The 18-inning tussle equalled the season's major league high mark set up by the New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals of the National league on July 2, and eclipsed the 17-inning game the White Sox played with Detroit's Tigers, Aug. 13.

Meanwhile the third place Cleveland Indians downed the Boston Red Sox, 10-1. Monte Pearson and Bob Weiland waged a tight duel for seven frames, but in the eighth the Indians broke loose for seven hits, which with two passes and an error gave them eight runs.

Detroit's pitching staff collapsed in the only other American league game of the day and the Tigers dropped a 12-7 decision to the Philadelphia Athletics.

Not a wheel turned in the National league.

RALPH DE PALMA TO TAKE WHEEL AGAIN

By The Associated Press

ELGIN, Ill., Aug. 22—Ralph De Palma, one of the most famous of race drivers, will return to competition in the revival of the Elgin national road race Saturday afternoon.

De Palma, winner of the last renewal of the hazardous grind in 1920, and 20 other speedsters are entered for the feature event, a 305 mile ride over an 8.44 mile course for stakes totaling $5,000.

Besides De Palma, the entry list includes:

Fred Frame of Los Angeles; Wilbur Shaw of Indianapolis; Lou Moore of Indianapolis; Russell Snowberger of Philadelphia; Phil Shafer of Des Moines, Ia; Bill Cummings of Indianapolis, Walter Zale of Chicago; Dave Evans of Indianapolis; William (Shorty) Cantlon of Detroit; Joe Russo of Indianapolis, and Frank Brisko of Milwaukee.

VANGLER TOSSED BY SHEIK MAR ALLAH IN MAT SHOW FEATURE

Anxiousness To Win Costly To West Virginian; Semi-Final is Draw.

Sammy Vangler got too anxious to win in his match last night with Sheik Mar Allah and as a result he is carrying around the banner of defeat today.

Vangler lost the match after taking the first fall and tossing the referee around in the last. In fact it was the referee through Vangler's aid who made it possible for the Sheik to win.

It was one of those bouts which only Vangler can put on. Fans were constantly expecting the unusual to happen and Vangler did not disappoint them. He brought out so many tricks for an airing that the Sheik almost decided in the early stages of the affair that it would be well to stay at home.

Vangler Takes First

Vangler's only fall came after 18 minutes with a reverse arm lock and body scissors. It followed a long battle over a hook scissors. The Sheik evened the affair up by pinning Vangler in 19 minutes with a crab.

The final fall lasted just four minutes. The Sheik was outside the ropes and Vangler was continuing to rush him in spite of efforts of the referee to give the Persian a chance to return. In the last attempt, Vangler grappled with the referee, both fell backward with the referee on top. Vangler apparently thought a piano hit him and he was knocked out long enough for the Sheik to force his shoulders to the mat.

The semi-final rivaled the main event for interest with Charley Carr and Les Fishbaugh battling 45 minutes to a draw. Fishbaugh smacked Carr with everything but that new corner post on the ring. Both had the idea that the best way to win the match was to knock the other out but that's the hardest thing to do to a wrestler.

Fishbaugh's Error

Neither man was able to get much of an edge but near the end of the match Fishbaugh apparently had Carr hooked with a crab Carr proceded to pat the cobbler on the shoulders and Fishbaugh, thinking he had won the fall, got up, only to be tossed out of the ring. A few minutes later the match ended.

In the preliminary Jack Sivers of Pittsburgh, former member of the Ohio State mat team, was awarded a draw with Bill Miller of Columbus.

COLUMBUS SURE OF BEING IN PLAY-OFF

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 22—With the end of the season less than a month away, Columbus and Minneapolis appear certain of meeting in the first play-off series for the American Association title.

Columbus today had a lead of 20½ games over the next eastern division club, Indianapolis, while the Millers, back on their feet since returning to their own park, led St. Paul by six games in the battle for the western end leadership. Under the system adopted this year, the leaders of the two divisions will meet for the title

Minneapolis yesterday finished fast to defeat Toledo, 5 to 4, in the opening game of their series.

Neither Dick Coffman nor Ash Hillin could stop Louisville and the Colonels defeated Milwaukee, 9 to 1. While Louisville was battering the two Brewer hurlers for 13 hits, Archie McKain pitched five-hit baseball.

Jack Tising held Kansas City to three hits in a night game and Indianapolis defeated the Blues 3 to 0. Rain kept Columbus and St. Paul idle.

Cub President Seeks Way To Revive Interest

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 22—Major league baseball, still struggling to climb "out of the red," must adopt the proposal for a mid-summer series of inter-league games or do something equally drastic in order to revive interest in 1934, in the belief of William L. (Bill) Veeck, president of the Chicago Cubs.

"There is no use kidding ourselves any longer," Veeck told The Associated Press today. "Only one big league club out of 16 made money last year. Some of us have hopes of breaking even this season, unless the pennant races continue to fall out from under us.

"We can't go on operating on the same basis as we did 25 years ago. If we don't cut admission prices or make the game more attractive, we certainly will be up against a further loss of patronage.

"I can speak definitely for the Chicago Cubs when I say we are heartily in favor of helping solve the situation and create a wider interest by arranging a series of inter-league games in mid-season. In my opinion it would be a positive and natural development.

"What then is more natural than to break up this monotony of mid-season by scheduling a series of games between clubs of rival leagues? Let the Yankees and Athletics play the Cubs and the Giants, the Tigers play the Pirates, the Chicago White Sox meet the St. Louis Cardinals, and so on.

"The whole picture would be refreshened and livened Don't you think Giant rooters would flock to see their favorites try to flatten the Yankees now, or vice versa?"

LANCASTER BEATS MARION NET CLUB

Dropping five out of seven matches, the Marion Tennis club was overwhelmed on the Steam Shovel athletic field courts Sunday afternoon by Lancaster.

Art Cheney and Bill Stair were winners in one doubles match and John Smith was victorious in a singles match. The other matches all went to Lancaster.

Cheney and Stair took their doubles match by scores of 6-8, 6-4 and 7-5. Smith won in straight sets, 6-2 and 8-6. Other Marion singles players, all of whom lost are Walter Long, John Greer, Art Yazel, Bob Wolfinger and Ralph Carhart.

YOUTHFUL MARKSMEN CAPTURE LAURELS IN EVENTS AT VANDALIA

17-Year-Old Michigan Shooter Breaks 199 To Win Amateur Title.

By The Associated Press

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 22 That time-honored adage, "youth must be served" was exemplified in the opening day's program of the thirty-fourth annual grand American handicap trapshooting tournament yesterday when Ned Lilly, 17-year-old shooter from Stanton, Mich., and Miss Alice Crothers, 22 of Chestnut Hills, Pa., combined to take three of the four championships contested.

After a successful defense of his junior title by shattering 100 straight targets, Lilly kept right on going, dropped one out of the next 100th to finish the day with a 199 score to win the amateur clay target championship of North America—the first time in the history of the shoot that a junior has won this event.

Miss Crothers, after six years of trying, finished the day with 186 to win the women's North American title. Mrs. J. S Murphy of Frechold, N. J., was second with 181, and Mrs. D. M McClain of Atlanta, third, with 179

Fred Harlow of Newark, O., won second place in the men's race with a score of 198, but was forced to shoot off with Lewis Slocum of Trenton, N. J.

The professional amateur and women's doubles were up for settlement today. In two of these events, the pro and the amateur, shooters reached the half-way mark yesterday. B. V. Christie of Houston, Tex., will take the traps this morning out in front with a score of 95 out of a possible 100, while Clyde Wells, professional, of St. Louis, will lead his group with a 96 score.

Three other shooters, however, are close behind Christie. They are Frank Lightner of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, with 94; Frank Troch of Portland, Ore., with 93, and H. W. Woodward of Houston, Tex., with 92.

Small animals and birds are immune from being caught in a trap invented by a United States Department of Agriculture biologist to capture only large beasts.

PRESBYTERIANS AND EPWORTH TO CLASH IN OPENING CONTEST

Gasco Club To Tackle Kappas in Second Conflict Thursday.

Marion's biggest little amateur sport spectacle, the eighth annual Little World series for the city softball championship will get under way Wednesday at 6 p. m. on the Lincoln park diamond. The date was set and other business relative to the struggle for the city championship transacted last night as the city softball commission met at the Y. M. C. A.

Four teams, the First Presbyterians of the No. 1 Sunday school league, the Epworth Seniors of the No. 2 Sunday school league, the Gasco club of the Industrial league and the Kappas of the Commercial circuit, will battle it out for the title

Two Games This Week

Two games are on the schedule for this week The Epworth Seniors and First Presbyterians will cross bats Wednesday in the inaugural and will be followed a day later by the Gasco club and the Kappas The Wednesday and Thursday dates were named so Friday might be left open for use in case rain prevents playing on either Wednesday or Thursday. Pairings were made by drawing, the managers of the four teams doing the drawing.

Five umpires, one an alternate, were named to officiate in all the series games. Paul Rice will serve as umpire-in-chief. His aids will be William (Pop) Wylie, Bert Curtis, Guy Stones and Harry (Red) Welch Welch is the alternate. He will fill in when any one of the other four are not on hand. The umpires were chosen by the managers

To Broadcast Games

For the first time in the history of the series a public address system will be used to broadcast the games within the park The system was used for the first time in the game yesterday between Epworth Seniors and First Reformed. Four speakers will be in operation during the series, two in the grandstand and one each for the first and third base line bleachers.

The commission has made arrangements to have the playing field in tip top condition for the series. Red Welch has been named supervisor of the grounds for the second year and has been authorized to do anything necessary to keep the diamond in good condition. The commission also voted to repair the fence surrounding the park and to furnish police protection during the series. Several other minor details were taken up.

Marathon Match.

By The Associated Press

CHILLICOTHE, O., Aug. 22—A three-set match that lasted 3 hours 10 minutes was played in the south central Ohio tennis tournament here by Jim Grim of Portsmouth and William A. Janes of Gallipolis Grim won, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4.

THE GUMPS

BY SIDNEY SMITH

AN INDIGNATION MEETING—
WHEN TOWNSEND ZANDER MADE A SUDDEN DISAPPEARANCE FROM ALL HIS OLD HAUNTS HE WAS MORE THAN LITTLE MISSED BY SOME OF HIS EX-FRIENDS—
TONIGHT THE GANG THAT HE ONCE RULED WITH AN IRON HAND GATHER IN A BACK ROOM TO AIR THEIR GRIEVANCES—
8 22
THAT DOUBLE-CROSSER— I'M STILL WAITING FOR MY SPLIT ON THE ROBBERY DEAL—
I DONE A SIX MONTH STRETCH IN DE JUG FOR HELPIN' DAT GUY OUT WID A JOB— AND HE AIN'T COME T'ROUGH WID A DIME—
AND DID HE DO ME DIRT ON THEM STOLEN CARS— I'D LIKE TO LAY MY HANDS ON THAT DIRTY TWO-TIMER—
YES— AND LISTEN TO THIS— I HELPED HIM PRY BIM GUM' LOOSE FROM MILLIONS AND ALL I GOT WAS PROMISES— HE HAD IT ALL PLANNED— HE WAS GOING TO CLEAN EVERYBODY AND BEAT IT OUT OF THE COUNTRY— HE HAD PASSAGE BOUGHT ON THE BOAT—
WE'LL GET THAT GUY YET—
AND SO, TO THE FORCE OF POLICE SEARCHING FOR TOWNSEND ZANDER, ANOTHER FORCE IS ADDED— A MORE SINISTER— BUT NEVER THE LESS EARNEST FORCE EACH WITH A SUSPICIOUS BULGE AT THE HIP POCKET—
MEANWHILE— STILL A FUGITIVE— WORSE THAN A MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY— A MAN WITHOUT A FRIEND— WHO WOULD RECOGNIZE IN THIS HAGGARD CREATURE THE ONCE DAPPER CROOK, TOWNSEND ZANDER—?
THERE'S ONLY ONE REFUGE— ONLY ONE PERSON I CAN CALL FOR HELP— HENRIETTA ZANDER— SHE WON'T TELL— SHE DOESN'T DARE TELL—
Sidney Smith

TOOTS AND CASPER

BY JIMMY MURPHY

EVERYTHING IS ALL SET TOOTS, AND WE'VE JUST TIME TO CATCH OUR TRAIN— THIS IS ONE TIME THAT WE'RE STARTING ON A VACATION WITHOUT COLONEL HOOFER KNOWING ABOUT IT! HE'LL BE SURPRISED WHEN HE DROPS OVER AND FINDS US GONE!
YOU DIDN'T TELL CASPER THAT WE'RE GOING AWAY FOR A WEEK, DID YOU, COLONEL?
OF COURSE I DIDN'T, SOPHIE! IF HE KNEW IT HE'D WANT TO COME ALONG WITH US!
CASPER IS MY PAL BUT I CAN'T AFFORD TO HAVE HIM ON THIS TRIP— THIS IS TO BE AN INEXPENSIVE VACATION FOR US SOPHIE! WE'LL TAKE AN INEXPENSIVE ROOM AND GET INEXPENSIVE MEALS, BUT IF HE WAS ALONG I'D HAVE TO SPEND A LOT OF MONEY KEEPING UP WITH HIM AND I CAN'T AFFORD THAT!
JIMMY MURPHY 8-22
YES, SEND A TAXI RIGHT OVER AND HURRY! WE HAVE TO CATCH A TRAIN!
HAW-HAW! THIS IS ONE TIME I'M PUTTING IT OVER ON CASPER! HE'LL THROW A FIT WHEN HE CALLS UP AND FINDS OUT THAT WE'VE GONE!

Mt. Gilead Told Water Rate Reduction Unlikely

Negotiations To Be Continued by Council, Fire Hydrant Rent May Be Reduced.

Special to The Star

MT GILEAD Aug 22—Negotiations for a readjustment of city water rates are being conducted by council with C C Roberts of the company of the Mt Gilead Water, Light, Heat & Power Co Roberts was present at the council meeting Monday night and while he made no promise of any reduction it is believed that the city may be granted a reduction in the rate for hydrants Several thousand dollars is due the company for city water and lights

Possibility of a reduction in the rates to individuals is remote Roberts intimated, after declaring that the probability of state tax on water companies would probably make it impossible for the company to reduce the rates An increase in the quantity allowed under the minimum rate is a future possibility

Roberts declared that the company's income was being reduced by merchants keeping their stores open shorter hours and by the absorption of the federal tax which will be paid by the company instead of the individual consumer He added that costs of the company under NRA regulations had increased and that their costs had been further increased by coal price rises, making the granting of any water or light rate reduction a serious question for the company.

If an agreement is reached for a rate reduction for city hydrants it will be approved by council at a special session Tuesday night, Sept. 5 when representatives of the company will again confer with council

M W Clemm chairman of the finance committee, who announced Monday night that he would not seek reelection to council, submitted a budget for the coming year Council will ask the county budget commission to approve a budget of $30 000 for the year, with $5,000 to be devoted to sinking fund requirements and the remaining $25,000 to be used for the general, service and safety funds Last year the budget submitted called for $15,000 but this was cut by the county budget commission to approximately $5,000 and this amount is thousands of dollars short of the amount required for current expenses this year, councilmen said

At a joint meeting of the Riverciff cemetery board trustees, composed of council members and township trustees a budget calling for $2 000 for 1934 was approved for submission to the county budget committee.

Why—

You're always saying Chesterfields taste better

—I wish you'd tell me why

Well, I've worked in tobacco; I've manufactured cigarettes . . . and I'll tell you why Chesterfields taste better.

For a cigarette to have a good taste, it must have first the right kind of Domestic tobacco. This means ripe, mellow, sweet tobacco, filled with Southern sunshine. Then, blended and cross-blended with this tobacco there must be the right quantity of the right kinds of aromatic Turkish tobacco . . . tobacco that has a pleasing flavor and aroma.

Aroma, as you know, adds to the taste. It's just like the pleasing aroma from certain foods. It's appetizing. It makes the food taste better. It makes the cigarette taste better.

Then again, for a cigarette to have a good taste, it must be made right. The size, the cigarette paper, everything about it must be right.

Just try Chesterfields.
